Sandfly, I'm surprised you haven't seen any. They're common along the Pine Creek trail between Tiadaghton and Darling Run. I was amused last August by some tourist bike riders looking at some as if they were behind glass.

The area I most commonly see rattlesnakes is down Slate Run.

The best advice is to stay alert, cause if you're fishing a stream like slate run and you get hit, the walk is long, steep and the only thing a cell phone is gonna be good for is getting yourself on video saying goodbye.

Love the gun talk though. Draw and fire before a rattler nails ya. Sounds like a good test for the mythbusters....lol
