Yellow Breeches would make the list. Its strength is length, its just so long and there's so much water. But by and large its just a decent stocked trout stream.

My thoughts exactly. As far as the Ausible River in NY goes. I fished it a few years back and am actually going up there again in July. I had a blast and caught several wild browns and missed a nice one that was over 15" that came off my line after a good 2 min fight in high fast water.

Also the lower Tully, as good as it is and as much fish as I catch there is like the Breeches. Just a well stocked fishery.

There is something about fishing water that trout can actually LIVE in that does it for me.

Words to live by.
