I personally don't mind the wind turbines. There are 40 + near my home and I don't mind how they look. I personally think for electricity we need a combination of a few types not just one or the other. In the area I live we have the Berwick power plant just a few miles away to the north, the Mahanoy City Wind turbines also that are only a few miles to the south and they are still mining coal all around here. I think combining the resources is the best way to go.
