You're a new FFer, right? I'll save you the time and say to get a chest pack. A lot of people ditch the vest for one eventually anyway.

IMO, vests are really uncomfortable.

I don't understand the appeal of the chest pack, it just seems like it'd get really awkward and really quickly.

I briefly thought about buying the Orvis over-the-shoulder bag, and then just wearing one of those Columbia sport shirts with the sleeve garters, velcro pockets and rod holders. I'm sure you know what I mean.

But, in the end, that just seems almost as awkward as a chest pack, so I'll keep to the vest and just try to minimize the amount of junk I carry with.
