Now, I feel wind power is a nice supplement in our energy needs, but by no means the answer. My understanding is that they are very costly to build, maintain and not suitable in a lot places. I would think the time it would take to pay for itself wouldn't be seen in our lifetimes. I also think too many people are scared of the "nuclear" word! As mentioned above, it will take a mixture of our resources and better technology to meet our increasing energy needs.
