I'm a little disappointed by the Flytedeck website.

I don't remember the little pouch for tippet being on the one I saw. I'd think that would be a nice addition.

Although to build on Maurice's craft-store knock off, I put something similar on my Richardson's box. I found a small pouch and mounted it on the front of my chestbox with velcro. You could do pretty much the same.

I'll say again though, there are some really, really nice ultra-light chestbox/lanyards out there that would do all the stuff the Flytedeck does, and hold up better than something that you'd cobble together.
