

Subject: : Paflyfish General Forum

Topic: : rattlers

Re: rattlers

Author: : BS21

Date: : 2009/4/30 18:45:04

URL:

I know this is an old thread but on the subject of misidentified snakes, juvenile black snakes have markings similar to copperheads and rattlesnakes. Because of their markings and juveniles being somewhat aggressive they are commonly misidentified. Also northern watersnakes can be aggressive at times which is probably a reason why they are thought to be water moccasins.