

Subject: : Fly Tying

Topic: : Tying Kits

Re: Tying Kits

Author: : Coughlin

Date: : 2007/4/2 12:37:54

URL:

Not much to add. Kits are good (Cabela's is fine) because just about everything is there. On the other hand, you really will want to have a good pair of scissors. I have three, curved, straight & micro. Sharp scissors are a must.

Someone above mentioned buying materials to tie Gold ribbed Hare's Ear, Pheasant Tail and Woollybuggers. That's good advice as the techniques you'll learn there can be applied universally.

Someone else mentioned classes. I learned from books but think if classes are available that's your best bet. Besides, you'll certainly meet some nice people.

Beyond that, go slow, have fun, and let out a big whoop when you catch a fish on a fly you've tied yourself.

Coughlin