Looking at those parameters I'd say a Subaru Outback. My wife has one that is great around town and I used one for a week as a rental car on a fishing trip recently. It's not big but I could still cram 4 big duffels and 3 styro coolers in the back. The buggers long enough to fit your 9' rods strung up through the vehicle. The AWD does well in the mud. A nice low lift for a canoe or kayak.

But still, I prefer an SUV. My favorite all timer was a 1989 Isuzu Trooper that had begun to take on that wonderful beer/cigar/campfire/neoprene/wet dog smell. Dang I miss that thing! My Tahoe has more room but its a bit refined.

What did Gierach always talk about in his book. Oh yeah, a black and white Ambler wagon. The "R" fell off.
