

---

Subject: : Conservation

Topic: : State Park Closings?

Re: State Park Closings?

Author: : afishinado

Date: : 2009/6/2 12:59:57

URL:

Quote:

JackM wrote:

If Pennsylvania had too few wild trout streams, then your reductio ad absurdum argument might have some force.

reductio ad absurdum

Main Entry:re-duc-tio ad ab-sur-dum

Pronunciation:\ri-?d?k-t?-??-?ad-?b-?s?r-d?m, -?d?k-s?-?- , -sh?- , -?z?r-\

Function:noun

Etymology:Late Latin, literally, reduction to the absurd

Date:1741

1 : disproof of a proposition by showing an absurdity to which it leads when carried to its logical conclusion

2 : the carrying of something to an absurd extreme

Jack, PA has way too few trout streams based on its history. We lose wild trout streams or they are diminished each and every year through development and commercial exploitation. They are to be treasured and protected for us today, and for all future generations.....IMHO. Your post has reatitido MY absurdeum...I need a Tums!