Good points afish. I still think that we need to consider the public stance on such issues before going to war on a debate such as the one surrounding the poe. I don't disagree that cold water resources may be the most important, but we've got to pick our battles. This may not be winnable.

That's the only point I was trying to make, troutbert. You make an absolute ass of yourself when you twist and contort statements around like that.
