

Subject: : Conservation

Topic: : State Park Closings?

Re: State Park Closings?

Author: : jayL

Date: : 2009/6/5 9:34:57

URL:

Quote:

osprey wrote:

If you've ever been swimmin , even in a farm pond , don't have to dive down very far , maybe 10' , to notice the temperature change , i read something once that said a 20-30 degree change in the ambient/air temp equals about 2 or 3 degree change in water temp. as far as range comparison and effect. Doesn't take much depth for water to at least reach earth temp. which is like 54.

Yes, but to create a year-round cold water supply is a different story. It's not that simple.

TB,

Feel what you want. I don't think you should feel any guilt. I appreciate any conservation work you've done. I stand by my statements. If you're unwilling to take them for what they are, even after an explanation, then perhaps you're guilty of something else too. And you can feel guilty about that. Taking the words of others, and making an effigy of them for those of your train of thought is the worst possible way to rally support for any cause.