Ok, so now I'm amazed again. Like I said B4, I was amazed that trout could take or even SEE a size 14 whatever. Now Skipper and I were out on the Lil J yesterday, 6/6, 09 and couldn't catch a fish to save out life.

He noticed that the psuedocloens were laying everywhere. And they are a size 20-22!! YIKES

It's going to be tough hooking and fighting even a 14 - 16"fish to the shore.

Do ya'll keep your fishin hats on at this time of year, or do you go for something else and not even fuss with these super small flies?

I'm a glutton for punishment, so I guess that means I'll be out there slingin flies.
