I used to have bootfoot hippers but recently went to stocking for both chest and hippers. I agree that they are a pain to put on, but the trade off is much better ankle stability when wading. Also, I'm now in the wear waders at all times camp. Wet wading can be comfortable and I used to have a pair of felt soled sneakers specifically for wet wading, but I like the protection against ticks (as noted above), brush whip, and the occasional sticker patch I blunder into that the hippers give. Much of this is a matter of aging and some concessions that need to be made. 😊
