

---

Subject: : Tips and Tricks

Topic: : Aerializing lots of line..

Re: Aerializing lots of line..

Author: : tomgamber

Date: : 2009/7/9 12:50:26

URL:

you've got to slow it down a bit. You have to make sure you let your line completely open up before changing directions and you should really learn to single if not double haul before you try to send out any great length of line with a 10wt. I'm just guessing and you can correct me but if you've only cast a 4wt you have never had to do any of this before. You'll need to make adjustments. I highly suggest help from someone who can physically show you how to fix this and you can mimic the action. Funny part is that when I have been throwing my 8wt for a week and then go back to my 4wt it takes me longer to adjust.