

Subject: : Gear Talk

Topic: : Wading Shoes, Light But Tough

Re: Wading Shoes, Light But Tough

Author: : troutbert

Date: : 2007/4/19 9:51:19

URL:

Thanks for all the good ideas. I ended up getting the Simms Guide model boots. Like Padraic said they are solid boots with good support. Maybe not real lightweight but not extremely heavy either, and they should hold up well. Plus, I'm not a cheapskate (well maybe somewhat) but they have them on sale at Yellow Breeches Outfitters for 50% off. They had my size and still have a fair number of boxes of boots left. You might stop in and see if they have your size. The guy managing the store, Art, and is a real nice guy. (None of that traditional fly shop grumpiness. Maybe he just hasn't been doing this long enough for that to kick in yet. 😊 )