I started tying in the seventies. I got serious about it in the eighties, then stopped and have started again. I can usually get about a dozen done in an hour, but there are many things that can change that. If you want to get fast, do like has been said, stick to one pattern in a few sizes. Things that can slow you down are bad eyeball days, all thumbs days, no coordination days, things like that. As has been said, just enjoy tying. If you really need a lot today for tomorrow, break out the plastic and visit your favorite shop. They may surprise you and have what you want.
