I thanks Fetus too for recommending the Traditional Angler. If that's where you got your Kreninik I hope there was some left after I placed my order.

Now that you like the stuff; I would suggest that you stock-up from the above mentioned source since you won't see the stuff in many fly shops; especially at that price.

BTW take Festus' advice and if you're not already using a tacky wax; try some of the Rumpf stuff. I have almost of full tube of Overton's and when I use it with the Kreninik; I can do 32's with no problem.

Happy tying!
