Why are my dry flies floating on their side?

I noticed a lot of my dry flies are floating on their sides instead of the hook point facing down...why is this happening? I'm half tempted to start tying my flies sideways but I feel it maybe be hurting my hook ups and they just aren't floating right. The fish don't seem to mind too much though but I have been missing fish I thought I should have had. I thought the hook from the bend down would weigh too much to stay afloat but thats definitely not the case.
