With Steelhead probably starting to stage in the next few weeks, and coming into the streams in a month or so, it's time to prepare for those who are regulars, or wanting to try steelhead fishing for the first time. fisherie.com gives some great information on steelhead fishing. Whether it is stream etiquette, tactics, or where to go, it is a great source of information. Here is a good link to a lot of information on this subject. Whether a newbie, or a seasoned vet there's always more to learn. I've got about 40 flies tied so far... that's just the start.

Tight lines, and screaming reels!
