

Subject: : Paflyfish General Forum

Topic: : Steelhead just around the corner

Re: Steelhead just around the corner

Author: : jayL

Date: : 2009/8/12 10:45:16

URL:

Quote:

StudentofTheStream wrote:

That is one thing that burns me about this year. They really bumped up the annual non-res license cost to the point that it makes me rethink my yearly NY trips.

I only make it up there a couple times a year but if I go two trips I'm already at the $70 annual license cost. Not sure why such a large jump for out of staters but I don't think I'm alone in rethinking my NY fishing visitation.

Yeah, I am a little disappointed as well. They understand that a large number of out of staters come to fish, so they are bumping the fees as such.

I'm hoping to find less crowded conditions this year, but I doubt it.

I will still pay. Four or five trips to the salmon, maybe a trip to oak, NY erie tribs become a possibility, and there's the upper delaware system. I think it's still worth the cost.