

Subject: : Paflyfish General Forum

Topic: : Steelhead just around the corner

Re: Steelhead just around the corner

Author: : ryguyfi

Date: : 2009/8/12 15:54:46

URL:

Quote:

PatrickG wrote:

Hey guys,

I've never fished for steelhead before but I would love to get up to Erie this year for it. I'm looking to get a 6-7wt rod. I'd really like to go up there with someone who's well versed in steelhead fishing as it would make it a better, more enjoyable experiencing instead of me guessing at every detail. If anyone could recommend what fly patterns (I have a good idea but would like some specific ones) to start tying, as well as any other special considerations I need to think about that would be great.

thanks

There is a great post going that I started just for this question in the fly tying thread.

http://www.paflyfish.com/modules/newb ... php?topic_id=8899&forum=5

Also I go up a handful of times every year and you are more than welcome to join me. I am by no means an expert, but catch my fair share of fish.

Ryan