

Subject: : Fly Tying

Topic: : Outter Banks/ Flies

Re: Outter Banks/ Flies

Author: : MKern

Date: : 2006/10/27 19:06:47

URL:

I was at the Fly Fishing Fair in Carlisle last March and there was a man selling his product called "Fish Skin" and "Nymph Skin" both a form of leather. It makes extremely durable flies. One was a minnow imitation -- fish skin, and the other a baby flounder -- nymph skin. He used an up-curved hook, and glued one piece of light brown leather for the belly, and a darker more textured piece for the top of the fly. In the middle was grizzley colored feathers that protruded from between the pieces of material. Try looking up his material form a search engine.

I know a company based out of Tailand not replicates his flies with his materials.

Good Luck.